ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A foreign-matter removal capacity is improved in a cleaning process. When a wafer is cleaned while a brush is moved from the center of the wafer toward the outer circumference thereof, a discharge flow rate of cleaning liquid flowing into the brush is regulated so that the interval between the brush and the wafer is kept constant.

Document provided by IP.com